You're listening to The Luddite Lounge where we're serving up news, views and how-tos for the digital world we've all come to depend on—whether we like it or not!

Hey there glad you can join me today in The Luddite Lounge. I'm Elizabeth Kricfalusi, publisher of the Tech for Luddites blog and Chief Luddite.

This is Episode 26 of The Lounge and today's episode is an All Things Rando segment, where I'll be talking about a wide variety of topics with no specific theme or time limit. You can find show notes with related links at ludditelounge.com/episode26.

Let's get started!

First, a correction. In the last Lounge episode, I said that the next one would include an advance look at my plans for Tech for Luddites in the coming year. I'm not quite there yet, so that info will make its debut next week.

One thing that will be changing is that I'm going to be testing out recording Lounge episodes on Tuesdays instead of Thursdays. Now that I do a Three Tip Thursday post every week, it's a bit much to also do a podcast on the same day, which is why—for example—this episode is coming out on a Friday instead. I'll stick to Tuesdays for January and then evaluate whether the schedule needs changing again then.

Next, if you've recently found yourself in possession of a Roku or an Amazon Fire TV streaming player and have not yet set it up, you can get a preview of the process on the T4L YouTube channel. For that matter, if you got an Apple TV, you could still look at one of the other two videos and get an idea what to expect because the setup process is pretty similar. If you got a Chromecast, on the other hand, that's a bit different but there is an older video for that on the channel as well that is still pretty close. You can find all these videos and subscribe to be notified when new ones are posted at youtube.com/techforluddites.

Next, I published a couple of T4L posts this week for those who are in the process of cleaning up after the holiday hoopla. One is its own post about how you can use your Amazon and other boxes to ship donations to Goodwill for free and the other has a link to tips for recycling Christmas trees, and it's in the Three Tips Thursday post for this week. You can find links to both posts in the show notes or just go to techforluddites.com/blog to find them.

Finally, in honor of Carrie Fisher who we lost this week, I will be watching When Harry Met Sally again this weekend. Even though I love everything about the movie, I always thought that Carrie was especially funny and, as usual, highly rebatable. If you'd like to add it to your weekend viewing list, you can watch it for free if you're a Hulu subscriber, or rent the HD version from Amazon Video for $3.99.

And that's it for this final 2016 episode of The Luddite Lounge. Again, you can find the show notes and leave comments at ludditelounge.com/episode26. If you've enjoyed the show, please consider going to iTunes and leaving a star rating or review or share a link to theludditelounge.com on social media.

Thanks for listening! Until next time...
